

REL 132 : Introduction to the New Testament

An introductory course designed to provide understanding of the New Testament and of biblical faith; its basic concepts, values, terminology, literary forms, principal personalities, places, and events. Emphasis is placed upon reading, discussing and understanding biblical literature in terms of the interpretive implications, meaning and value for daily living and personal decision- making. Offered in the Spring and Summer.

Credits 3