

EDU 432 : Assessment and Evaluation

This course provides an overview of various assessments and evaluation procedures used by teachers and various ways teachers identify learning objectives and measure mastery of outcomes. Teacher candidates have opportunities to design a test based on their certification area and analyze test data. It focuses on the development, administration, evaluation, and interpretation of educational assessment, including creating plans that integrate teaching and assessment; designing objectives, performance, and portfolio assessments; evaluating students and discussing evaluations with parents; and interpreting standardized tests. Membership in the Student Alabama Education Association is required in order to take this course.
