

MUS 224 : Class Piano

Class Piano is designed to teach fundamental keyboard and musicianship skills, appropriate to the particular music concentration, including five-finger position, scales, and progressions. Also taught are accompanying and basic theory, including note recognition, rhythm, harmony, form, basic harmonization and sight-reading. Students will practice transposition. Candidates will achieve competency for teaching. No prior music experience required. Functional abilities in voice keyboard, and teaching specialization are essential.

Credits 2

Comments

Music majors may use this sequence to prepare for the required Piano Proficiency Exam.

Recommended

Courses should be taken in sequence (123-124-223-224).