

MAT 332: Abstract Algebra

This course is a study of algebra as it relates to elementary number theory (such as factorization, primes, and common factors), groups, rings (such as, division rings), integral domains, and elementary field theory and the relationship between structures of number systems and symbolic calculations, modeling those relationships and operations.

Credits: 3

Prerequisites: MAT 146 and MAT 234.

Program: Mathematics